morning, with the result that the scrappy band from the Potomac got down to real work and handed Jim Bagby his first setback of the season.

The Nationals clouted Bagby for nine safe blows, and it was only the new hundred thousand dollar combination of "Chapman to Wambsganss to Guisto" that killed the Griffmen's chances of registering at the counting Ainsmith.... 14 chances of registering at the counting block on more occasions than four, as a double play in the second and a wonderful force out in the ninth held

This leaping tornado from the Lone Star State sure had something more than sip on the ball today, as two of the trio of hits registered off his delivery were scored safe blows according to the Cleveland system. Gallia's curve ball was working in perfect or-der, as his effectiveness in the pinches stood out prominently out prominently, as only one of the six free passes he issued counted in the Indians' run-getting. The Nationals started early on Bag-by, as Foster tripled to right field in the opening inning, but died when Mi-lan forced him at the plate. In the fourth Rice started with a single and moved to second on Smith's sacrifice. Morgan beat out an infield tap, which held Rice at second, but the Nationals were not to be denied, as Sammy Crane, who answered the hurried call from the Capital City, when McBride from the Capital City, when McBride was injured, came through with a timely crash to center field and Rice beat Speaker's throw to the plate.

The Indians evened the score without a hit in their half, as Ray Chap-man showed a little of the Ty Cobb speed on the bases. Gallia passed Chapman and when Speaker was attempting to place one safe Chapman stole second. On the hit and run, in which Henry outguessed the Indians. Chapman went to third and scored when Crane threw Roth's grounder over Henry's head. Joe Judge opened the fifth by hitting the right field screen for three bases.

Corkran outdrove his opponent on al-Cup in Second Frame.

The Analostan Gun Club held its weekly club match at its club at Benning yesterday, and while G. W. Derrick was high gun, J. T. Lewis beat him out for the club cup, Derrick falling down in the second frame with 23, Lewis carryins clean.

The day was hardly an ideal one for the shooting game, as a strong wind cames eccentrically. In spite of this many difficult shots were pulled off, the summary showing.

Corkran outdrove his opponent on almost all occasions, but he found virtually every trap on the course, while Maxwell, much the steadier, usually kept straight down the course. Although Corkran was in trouble of some kind—in traps or topping shots—on almost every hole, he seemed to be blessed with the happy faculty of always being able to get out, and had it not been for this he would have been beaten rather badly. He started off by pulling his drive to the shooting game, as a strong wind cames and trap and did not reach the first green until his third, losing when his fourth was short and Maxwell was down in 2.

Corkran won the second in par 4 after Valley, defeated W. P. Clamba, 2 up and 3. Final round: McCallum defeated Chasmar, 4 up and 2.

Semi-final round—D. Clarke Corkran, Baltimors C. C., defeated Norman W. Maxwell, Aronimink, Philadelphia, by 1 up at 19 holes. William R. Replication for the club cup, Derrick falling down in the second in par 4 after.

ficult' shots were pulled off, the sum mary showing.

On Memorial Day a tournament will be held at the Benning Field of the Analostans, and it is quite probable that a number of men in professional class will be present to contest. On Saturday next the club will hold a spoon shoot, but most of the cracks of the club will visit Baltimore where they will contest with the a members of the Oriole Club. The summer was a second and hooked it and overplayed it, taking a 5 to Maxwell's par 4. The short 146-yard fourth was halved, as was also the fifth. Corkçan geting a good also the fifth. Corkçan geting a good drive from this tee, but the ball hit the top of a mound and rolled back to the trap. He made a beautiful out and both were on the green in 2 and down

The count was squared again on the sixth after Corkran had sliced to the rough and topped his second, but luckily for him Maxwell also had a poor second and they lay about alike playing their thirds, both going to the edge of the green. Both overapproached, the Baltimore player winning when he sank his second putt and Maxwell placed on the second putt and Maxwell placed. putt and Maxwell missed. Corkran second putt and Maxwell missed. Corkran showed he was made of the right stuff on the seventh when he got a half after topping his drive and h.if-topping his second, as he laid his third on the green and then sank a pretty fifteen-footer. He also showed his ability at getting out of trouble on the eighth.

also showed his ability at getting out of trouble on the eighth. He got in all three traps going to this hole and yet managed to get a 6-only one stroke over par. Maxwell took the hole, however, with a pretty par 6. Corkran drove almost to the green from the ninth tee, while his opponent was short, taking three to reach it. Maxwell rimmed the cup on his fourth, enabling Corkran to win, and making the match all-even when they started the inward journey. The Potomac District of the International Federation of American Racing Pigeon Fanciers held their 200 mile race on Monday, May 7, from Danville, Va. Pimileo, Md., May 12.—By far the largest crowd that has ever attended the races at the historic Hilhop track was present today. The magnet which attracted the large gathering was the running of the Preakness Stakes, an affair at a mile and an eighth. The value to the winner was about $5,000, and some of the best horses in the country faced the winner was about $5,000, and some of the best horses in the country faced the barrier. were well played.
Once away from the barrier, E. T. Zolitooffer's 3-year-old filly, Fruit Cake, shot to the front, a lead which she held for about a half mile. In the meantime E. R. Bradley's horse Kalitan, whom he recently shipped for this race from Kentucky, was in third position, while Kentucky Boy was a length behind. After passing the three-quarter pole Kalitan shot to the front and retained this lead to the finish, winning by a good margin, while Al. M. Dick was second and Kentucky Boy third. No other canand Kentucky Boy third. No other can-didate in the race had any excuses, as they were all off in a bunch, and the best horse won. It was truly a great race and the winner won because he was pounds the best.

The defeat of Quietude by Charles Ley-lecker was a sad blow to the talent, as lic did not know who had won did official numbers were hung up.

Edward B. McLean, the Washington sportsman, uncovered a grand jumper in Bonnie Lass, who captured the steeple-

The Old Fox is not attempting in any way to steal any of the copyrights of the famous Johnny Evers, of Chicago Cubs and Boston Braves fame, but to the umpires handling the series here, Griff is the biggest and best crab that has ever stepped his foot on a diamond. Ever since Fred Coumbe put through his licerice spitter in the first game here Griff has been on the Cleveland, pitchers about their deliveries and moistened balls.

The Old Fox has called attention to the wetting of the ball, to Umpires Connolley and McCormick on a number of occasions, but to date neither have taken any action,

The darking of the horsehide when the pitcher is using a fast ball makes it look a great deal like the emery heave and has proven quite a puzzle to the National swatmen. Griff's complaint of the Indian pitchers practicing the dark-ing of the horsehide, came to a climax here today when he called on Umpire Connolley to halt Jim Bagby in his ef forts of spitting on the ball, Connolley insisted that Griff first in-spect the ball and then after taking a slant at it himself he put it back in house the day the Nationals left Wash The Carpenter brothers scored heavy in this meet, and without the aid of these athletes, who came to the front, the Manual Trainers would not have been in the runner-up position all through the meet.

Ben Carpenter surprised his followers by romping away with the hundred and setting second in the 230, while his brother. "Herb." got second in the broad jump. Ben was pushed hard in the hundred by Swaine and McLean, of Central, who failed in the broad that may be dropped by the German phoy is now preparing for the bombs that may be dropped by the German phoy is now preparing for the man phoy is now preparing all fly balls.
